

Anshu Shukla

Chief of Design

Anshu Shukla is the Chief Design Officer at Mahindra Lifespaces, with over two decades of experience in architecture, design management, and real estate development. Her expertise spans residential, commercial, and premium housing projects across India, with a focus on high-density urban development, sustainability, and design efficiency.

She holds a Bachelor of Architecture from Mumbai University and a postgraduate degree in Construction Management from NICMAR. A strong believer in the power of design to drive business outcomes, Anshu has led initiatives that institutionalise design processes, align creative vision with execution, and integrate sustainability into every stage of development.

At Mahindra Lifespaces, Anshu leads a multidisciplinary team, and collaborates closely with external consultants to deliver spaces that are aligned with the organisation's long-term vision. Her impact spans delivering transformative projects, notably in high-density urban housing, championing sustainability and cost-efficiency.

She is an Accredited Professional of the Indian Green Building Council (IGBC AP) and a member of the Indian Institute of Architects (IIA). Actively engaged in design leadership forums, she is also a mentor to young professionals in the field, advocating for inclusive, resilient, and future-ready built environments.

Outside of work, Anshu is a storyteller, traveller, and writer who draws creative inspiration from diverse cultures and urban landscapes.

What drives her:

The challenge of solving complex design problems through creative and strategic thinking. Design is not just about what we build, but how we think our way through it.

Life Mantra-

"Think smart. Solve with intent. Build with meaning".